♣ A comprehensive book that:

- traces the evolution of ships and seafaring over the ages,
- looks at the rich maritime trade by civilizations of Babylon, the Arabs, the Romans, the Greeks, the Egyptians, and Europe and Asia that led to the development of varied and vibrant ship types and seafaring,
- focuses on technological innovations in ships and their impact on seafaring over the seas,
- looks at how the World Wars led to conspicuous developments of ships, warships and technology, and deals with various International Conventions relating to maritime safety and navigation, marine pollution and ocean resources.

♣ A virtual treasure of information for technology researchers, ship designers, navigators, shipbuilders, oceanographers, maritime historians, sociologists, general readers, teachers and students.

♣ Written by an expert in ship technology who has spent three decades in the shipbuilding industry in India and abroad, was Deputy Chief Surveyor in the Directorate General of Shipping and Head of Ship Safety (Naval Architecture) in the Ministry of Shipping, Government of India, and also taught Ship design, Shipyard design and Ship strength.

Shanti Swarup Bhatnagar: The Man and his Mission

A tribute to an extraordinary human being.

Architect of newly independent India's dream of gaining a firm foothold in the arena of science and technology.

A man who brought into existence the Council of Scientific and Industrial Research that has today grown to become one of the largest networks of scientific laboratories around the world.

Tale of a towering personality who moulded his own destiny and transcended his circumstances.

A story of a fatherless infant who struggled and triumphed against all odds.

A great human story about a scientist who was a poet at heart, a wonderful husband and father, a guru who led from the front, a dreamer of dreams, an indefatigable worker and a karmayogi par excellence.
